

WOULD DELAY PRIMARY TIL SEPTEMBER

Reapportionment Be- coming Lively Issue In Springfield

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 5—(UP)—The Illinois state legislature had before it today a recommendation that statewide primary elections be held in September instead of April so that campaign expenses of candidates for public offices may be reduced.

The recommendation is that of the Senate elections committee which yesterday favorably reported out a bill containing this provision. The bill was introduced by Senator Victor Michel, Republican, Peoria.

Arguments in behalf of the bill were that the primary election and the regular election held within a reasonable time of the other it would tend to keep political issues alive and reduce campaign costs of candidates in reviving issues.

At present, it was said, the period between April and November, the latter month being when the regular state elections are held, is too great to keep campaign issues alive, that by the time the fall election rolls around voters have become hazy in mind on issues and that candidates to keep votes in line, must renew their primary campaign.

For the purpose of further investigating election customs in other states the committee named a subcommittee of five which tomorrow will leave for Massachusetts and New York to study ballots without party columns on which candidates are listed under office designations.

The subcommittee consists of Senators Arthur Huesch, Republican Chicago; Richard Barr, Republican, Joliet; Michel T. J. Courney, Democrat, Chicago; and Richard Graham, Democrat, Chicago.

Reapportionment Gains?
Chicago's bid for reapportionment of the state's senatorial districts on the basis of the 1930 Federal population census was believed to have been considerably advanced today as a result of the house judiciary committee voting to report favorably on a resolution offered by Representative E. J. Schnackenberg, Republican, Chicago.

The resolution was one of three the committee had before it and provided for a committee of ten. Five from each House, to study the question with a view to making recommendations for reapportioning the state.

The committee rejected the other two resolutions, one by Representative Arthur Roe, Democrat, Vandallia, calling for a constitutional amendment, and the other by Senator Barr which would create a commission of nine to make a study of the subject. Barr's resolution which was amended to strike out an appropriation and to give Chicago six of the nine places on the commission, was considered as an attempt to delay action on the proposition.

Chicago Would Control
Chicagoans declare that if the state is reapportioned on a strictly population basis it will mean the metropolis will gain control of both houses whereas at present its membership consists of about one third of each house.

The hearing of reapportionment was enlivened by a near fist fight between Roe and Representative Sol Roderick, Republican, Chicago.

Roe was accused by Roderick of violating his oath of office in not voting for reapportionment.

"I don't violate it any more than you do," said Roe.

"Oh, yes you do," Roderick retorted.

"You're a liar," said Roe.

As the frate legislators drew toward each other, other members leaped between and averted further trouble.

A significant indication yesterday was the fact that several downstate members voted with the Chicagoans on reapportionment.

Among them were Representatives Howard Doyle, Democrat, Decatur, and W. C. Edwards, Danville. Both are Democrats.

SNOW AND COLD WAVE ENROUTE FROM ROCKIES

Blizzard Raging There Today: Fruit Grow- ers Welcome It

Denver, Mar. 5—(AP)—A wild March blizzard raged over the Rocky Mountain region today and was sweeping cold and snow into the Mississippi valley.

Blinding snow carried on the wings of a north wind curtailed air travel and made highways hazardous in the mountain states.

With the storm moving eastward below freezing temperatures and snow were forecast tonight and tomorrow for parts of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Snow was falling today in Colorado, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Wyoming and Montana.

A blizzard lashed Wyoming and travel bureaus there and in Colorado warned motorists not to venture out in the storm.

Air mail planes in the mountain section were being kept aloft under restricted schedules. The eastbound air mail plane was forced to land four times on emergency fields between Evanston and Cheyenne, Wyo., last night. Highways west of Cheyenne were blocked.

The weather bureau at Topeka, Kas., said the cold wave would be a blessing to fruit growers in holding back premature budding.

KIRKLAND MURDER TRIAL SHIFTS TO VALPARAISO AGAIN

Replace Arlene's Mutilated Body In Grave After Examination

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5—(UP)—A blow on the head killed Arlene Draves, Dr. Joseph Springer, Chicago medical expert, testified today before a crowded courtroom at Virgil Kirkland's trial on charges of murdering the girl by criminal attacks during a drinking party.

Dr. Springer, called as a defense witness, declared he found no evidence of a criminal attack in the second autopsy which he and three others performed when Arlene's grave near Reynolds was opened yesterday.

The grey-haired veteran of 25,000 autopsies, conducted while he was a Chicago coroner's physician, was permitted to testify despite strenuous objections by John Unerwood, Chief Deputy Prosecutor.

Dr. Springer, a gray-haired man in his 60's, was questioned by Richard Oldham, defense attorney.

Oldham asked about the results of the autopsy.

"What, in your opinion, was the cause of the girl's death?" Oldham asked.

"A blow on the head," Dr. Springer replied.

"Did you find any evidence of a criminal attack?" Oldham queried.

"No," said Springer.

Underwood attempted to qualify Springer's statements on cross examination.

"Could the shock of attacks and of exposure to near freezing temperatures have contributed to Arlene's death?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," Springer admitted.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 5—(UP)—Virgil Kirkland's trial on charges of murdering his sweetheart shifted back to Valparaiso today after Arlene Draves' mutilated body had been placed again in the grave from which it was taken in an effort to prove he did not kill her.

Physicians present yesterday when the girl's body was examined for the second time refused to comment officially, but the unofficial report was that the testimony of Dr. James Burcham, who performed the first autopsy three months ago, had been correct.

Attorneys for both sides admitted that if such a report was made official, it would be one of the most severe blows yet dealt the defense of Kirkland, who contends Arlene died of an accidental fall rather than from his attacks at a drinking party.

Exhumation of the body was mandated by Kirkland's attorneys.

Dr. Burcham, who testified the 18-year-old girl died of exposure and repeated attacks by Kirkland and four other youths at a gay party in Gary last Nov. 29.

Only six of the scores of the people who went to the girl's grave at Reynolds, Ind., were allowed to witness the autopsy performed in a one room building in the little town. They were the coroner, his assistant, and four physicians, two for the state, two for the defense.

A large crowd was in the cemetery when the coffin was raised. The shrouded as they saw that it was marked "at rest" and recalled the words of Charles Draves, Arlene's father: "Why can't they let my child rest in peace?"

Of six witnesses, only Dr. E. S. Jones made any comment.

He remarked merely that Dr. Burcham's original examination had been "very complete" which was what the defense had hoped to prove was not true.

A few tissues from the body were removed and sent to Chicago for more thorough examination. It was considered possible this might delay the trial another day as defense attorneys had announced they would not proceed until all findings of the second autopsy were complete.

Kirkland, who is 20 and a former high school athlete whose attorney claim he is merely a victim of "the jazz age in which he lives," did not accompany the expedition to Reynolds, remaining in jail here.

Police On Alert

Local police late yesterday afternoon were asked to be on the alert for two children, a boy and a girl, who were said to have been active in Freepoot and Polo in offices and places of business. The girl, described as being about 15 years of age and the boy, about ten, were said to be attempting to sell a spot-removing substance. In a Polo office building, they canvassed all of the employees. The purpose of a telephone operator in the rest room was opened and $30 taken. It was reported after which the children disappeared.

ATTORNEYS FOR MINERS TO COME HERE TOMORROW

Will Present Decrees To Judge Edwards For His Approval

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 5—(AP)—Provisional offices of district 12 of the United Mine Workers of America here placed in operation by President John L. Lewis when he revoked the charter of the district in 1929, were closed today.

Although officials refused to make statements, they said the offices will remain closed.

John T. Jones, provisional district Secretary-Treasurer, who is here today, refused to comment on the closing of the offices which are located in a hotel here. He said he wished "no publicity at this time."

President Frank Hefferly could not be reached. International President Lewis has been called to Washington, D. C., due to his brother's illness.

Meanwhile, attorneys of the two mine union factions are preparing to go to Dixon where Friday they will seek Judge Harry Edwards' sanction of decrees they will propose to amplify his oral decision in the recent injunction suit hearing here.

Attorneys said a "status quo" would be maintained until the final decree is reached, and if both sides can agree on one Friday, Judge Edwards will sign it.

Opening Games of Four Day Series Attract Large Crowds to Gymnasium

By ROBERT KENNEDY

The District Tournament opened last night with three of the most exciting games one would want to see. Tampico played Walnut and beat them by a score of 24-13.

Lyndon played Lee Center and won 20-11. The main event of the evening was started at nine o'clock and ended in one of the most exciting and close games ever played on the Dixon floor. Sterling played Mendota to a score of 18-16, in one overtime period. The gym was not filled but it should have been, with the best games of the tournament played last night.

With the playing of last night's games three teams were eliminated from the schedule. Walnut, Lee Center and Mendota, leaving Sterling to play Dixon tomorrow night at nine o'clock to determine the contestants for the semi-finals.

Tampico will play Lyndon Friday at eight o'clock. Tonight the following games will be played; at seven o'clock Ohio will play Hoopole, at eight o'clock Rock Falls will play Prophetstown and the main game, the Dixon-Sterling, will start at nine o'clock.

Tampico vs. Walnut

During the first half of the game Walnut led Tampico by one basket. The two teams were fairly matched but Walnut had the edge on Tampico, which came from their fighting type of basketball. The score was 5-7 at the half, but at the beginning of the second half Tampico began to "click," and they soon put Walnut far behind them. In the last quarter Walnut was no match for the Tampico team and they were forced out of the running by a 24-13 score, their opponents offense being too strong.

Lyndon vs. Lee Center

Lyndon took the lead in the first quarter and kept it during the whole game, which ended 20-11. Three men on the Lee Center team made all 11 points. A Mortenson made 8 points with 3 fouls against him, R. Bohn made 2 points and had one foul, while Snyder made 1 point and had no fouls against him. On the Lyndon team four of the men scored points. Millikan made 4 points and had one personal foul, Ahrens made one point, Blagg made 6 points and Gardner made 9 points. Both teams showed about the same qualities but Lyndon used theirs to the best advantage and scored Lee Center out of the running.

Sterling vs. Mendota

The big game of the evening certainly proved itself worthy of that name. At the start of the game neither team made any serious effort to beat the other, but Sterling soon sank two goals which brought Mendota to their senses. Mendota took time-out again to collect their forces and win this game. The evidently started something for as the quarter ended the score stood 16-6 in Sterling's favor, but in the last few minutes of the game they got in their best strokes. Two freethrows and one basket brought the score up to 16-12. At this point of the game the playing increased in speed until Sterling called time-out to get their breath. Here Mendota sank two baskets in a row which made the score 16-16. The game ended with this score and an overtime period was necessary. In the first minute of that period Sterling made a basket and then they kept the ball away from Mendota until the end of the game winning by 18-16.

SERIES OF HOG THEFTS ENDS; TWO ARE HELD

Chief Deputy Miller and Aides Capture Pair; Held to Grand Jury

A series of hog thefts which have occurred in Lee and Ogle counties was believed to have been halted late yesterday afternoon with the arrest of Clarence "Dutch" Busser, aged 21 and Glenn Hoff, alias "Pinky" Bruffel, both former residents of Lee Center township. Chief Deputy Sheriff Ward Miller traced checks which had been cashed at a service station during the past two weeks by the pair for amounts received for the payment of stolen hogs which were hauled to the north side Illinois Central stock yards and later disposed of to a local stock buyer.

Huff, aged 23, who has worked on farms in the vicinity of Lee Center and Franklin Grove was the first to be taken in custody for questioning. Both men had been questioned Monday afternoon by Chief Deputy Miller in connection with several hog thefts but were said to have stoutly denied any knowledge of the losses from various farmers. One of the pair is said to have volunteered to assist the chief deputy in uncovering the operations of the gang, if possible.

Three warrants, sworn out by different farmers before Justice Grover Gehant last night, charged Busser and Huff with the theft of hogs. One of the pair is said to have confessed to Chief Deputy Miller and State's Attorney Mark Keller, his activities covering a period of about 30 days in the theft of hogs in the two counties. Deputy Sheriff George Duneth of Lee Center apprehended both men and brought them to the county jail upon the orders of Chief Deputy Ward Miller.

From the reported confession, it was said that the pair had stolen hogs from the farm of Supervisor William Sandrock of Reynolds township, from the Lincoln A. Hartzell farm east of Dixon and from the Clarence Miller farm north of Franklin Grove in Ogle county. In most instances, the hogs were hauled or driven to a farm north of Franklin Grove in Ogle county, where they were either disposed of later hauled to a stock buyer. A sport roadster owned by Busser was said to have been used in the series of thefts, the hogs being loaded in the rumble seat compartment in the rear and hauled away.

At the Clarence Miller farm north of Franklin Grove, a valuable brood sow, the only hog on the farm, was taken one night a week ago, while the family was away from home, and was driven almost two miles, before it was loaded and hauled to the local stock yards.

Busser and Huff were held to bonds of $5,000 each when arraigned before Justice Gehant this morning at 10 o'clock and in default of the amount were returned to the county jail.

LaSalle Resident In Mental Lapse

Rochester, Wash., Mar. 5—(UP)—The mystery of Herman Nelson's disappearance from his home at LaSalle, Ill., last August, was complicated today by Nelson's insistence that his failure to write home had been due to "loss of memory."

Nelson said he recalled now that he was "in a truck wreck at LaSalle" and that he couldn't remember what happened thereafter, prior to his appearance on the Gibson Ranch here, except that he had a hazy impression of walking out of Chicago.

Mrs. M. H. Gibson, wife of the young farm hand's employer, pointed out, however, that Nelson gave his correct name when he appeared at the ranch, said he was from Illinois, and never mentioned difficulties with his memory until a week ago, when he wrote his parents for the first time since he left LaSalle.

DEMOCRACY IN CONFERENCE IN CAPITAL TODAY

Hope Liquor Issue Will Not Mar Harmony of Session

Washington, Mar. 5—(UP)—A proposal for an additional amendment to the constitution permitting states to manufacture, transport and sell liquor within their borders was put forward by John J. Raskob, chair-session of the party national committee for the consideration of the party today.

The prohibition issue overshadowed completely in preliminary talk and speculation the announced principal objective of the gathering—approval of plans for liquidating the party's $661,914 debt.

Southern members of the committee and proxyholders, joined by the representatives of New York state and some others came to the session determined to quell any effort at committing the group on the wet-dry issue.

Alfred E. Smith was on hand, disclaiming any knowledge of proposals that might be submitted at the session but maintaining stoutly that in 1932 prohibition would be an unavoidable issue.

Some reports had it that both he and Chairman Raskob had prepared for the occasion speeches which made mention of the liquor issue and their wet views, and that Raskob carried in his pocket the draft of a resolution on the question.

Democracy's 1928 presidential candidate said, however, he would not speak unless asked. Raskob was silent on his intentions.

Last moment protests against any airing of such issues were made. Harry Byrd, former governor of Virginia, vice-chairman of the committee, presented in person to Raskob yesterday a protest against any effort at commitment. He was ready, he said, to protest the proxies of territorial delegates. Those attending in person, he added, would defeat any such plan. However, Byrd said he would not oppose informal discussion of public questions.

New York's representatives, Norman E. Mack, committeeman and James A. Farley, proxy-holder for Miss Elizabeth Marbury, committeewoman, were on record against bringing up subjects of friction.

Something like two-thirds of the committeemen and a large number of the women representatives of states were expected.

Washington Court House, O., Mar. 5—(AP)—Mal S. Daugherty, brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and a figure in the Senate investigation of oil land leases several years ago, today faced a prison sentence for abstracting funds while president of the closed Ohio State bank.

Daugherty was found guilty late yesterday by a Fayette county jury which required but one ballot. The 68-year-old former banker, whose three weeks' trial was interrupted by the death of his aged mother, sat unmoved as he heard the verdict.

His attorneys announced a motion for a new trial will be filed, pending which his sentence will be delayed. He was found guilty on all five counts of the indictment, each of which carries a maximum sentence of 30 years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Sixteen indictments were returned against Daugherty as a result of the failure of the bank last May and his subsequent bankruptcy, but he was tried on only one indictment involving abstraction of $5,350.

You May Now Call

Chicago, Mar. 5—(AP)—James Hamilton Lewis has lost his "ex."

In addressing him you may now say "Senator Lewis" and forget about the "Senator-elect."

It happened around 11 o'clock yesterday morning at which time Senator Charles S. Deneen took over the "ex."

Mr. Lewis, or rather Senator Lewis was in the Federal building at the time and for an hour he didn't realize that he was Senator Lewis, because of the one hour difference in time between here and Washington.

Of course he has to be formally sworn in as a member of the Senate when it meets next December, but that will be just a formality. Senator Lewis has done that before.

Voliva Says Russia

Is Building Largest Army In The World

New York, March 5—(UPI)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, chief of Zion City, Ill., has just finished a trip around the world and docking here has pronounced himself even more firmly convinced than ever that the earth is a flat disc—not a globe.

He observed that "fundamentalists who reject evolution and accept the absurdities of modern geography and astronomy are straining at gnats and swallowing camels."

Incidentally, he brought home a prediction, based he said on scripture, that Russia by 135 would have the largest army in the world, including probably 17,000,000 cavalrymen.

FUN, SENTIMENT MARKED CLOSING OF LOWER HOUSE

Congressmen Had Boisterous Afternoon In Old Chamber

By THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 5—(UP)—Political friend and foe, members who will return next session and those who have been retired to private life, joined in a partly boisterous and partly solemn and sentimental session in the House chamber Wednesday after Speaker Longworth had rapped down his gavel, officially ending the Seventy-first Congress.

There were sentimental songs and sentimental speeches and funny songs and funny speeches. The Marine Band, resplendent and gay furnished the accompaniment. Rep. Woodrum, Dem., Va., was master of ceremonies.

Tunes of a bygone day echoed to the rafters, sung in lusty unison and by two male quartettes and individual members with talents for that sort of thing, including Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen and Rep. Connery Mass., a former actor and World War veteran.

The floor was crowded with relatives of members and the galleries were packed.

Several of the old retiring members were seen to wipe their eyes as the swell of voices rose in the tones of "Swanee River" and "My Old Kentucky Home."

The Interstate Commerce Commission male chorus, composed of members of the I. C. C. under the leadership of Commissioner Eastman followed with several numbers.

Much Bantering

The members, in less combative tones than customary, broke the intermission by passing bantering remarks at their colleagues.

Mrs. Owen, recognized as the most smartly dressed woman member shook her gray, bob-haired head as she sang several of the English music hall ballads for which she became famous while appearing before British troops in Egypt during the war. She was dressed in black satin and wore a small shoulder's bouquet of violets and rosebuds.

MADAME NIGHTINGALE

"To Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale, who once called upon the poet, and found no one at home."
NORTHERN Madame Nightingale, Grandmother said: She sings so true,
And if one summer's day it suits her, we must hear, and see her, too.

And can a wish bring things to pass?
And can a dream so vital be?
I thought she came across the fields
And sang in yonder apple tree.

Grandfather said: Mark this, my boy,
Make not existence too severe.
Nightingales sing not every day,
And tones so beautiful are rare.

In dreams I touch her garden hedge,
Or see her looking in my door.
Hark! the tones so rare once heard,
Those tones ring out for evermore.

O, northern Madame Nightingale,
I've told my boy this longing dim,
And if one summer's day it suits,
Please come and sing a song to him.

For just one such a day I long,
When I could in this lowly vale
See you come truly through the fields,
To sing here, Madame Nightingale.

Women Members Glad Of Congress Release

By SUE McNAMARA
Washington, Mar. 5—(AP)—Back to the home life, where they can experiment with recipes, farming or politics as their individual tastes dictate, go three women members of congress.
Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, small, grey-eyed, dressed always in black with a string of pearls around her throat, is glad to turn her back on affairs of state. When she came here two years ago, elected by the people of Arkansas to fill the unexpired term of her husband, the late William A. Oldfield, she said that she was accepting office "simply in the spirit of taking care of things for her husband." They were almost inseparable companions.
Now she can thankfully don an apron and step into the kitchen of the Washington apartment which she shares with her mother, to experiment with new recipes. In the evenings she plans to do a lot of reading. Social life has little allure for her. Washington is really home to her, for she spent 21 happy years here when her husband was in congress.

One could not imagine recipes and reading adequately filling the time of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick. Her two Illinois newspapers and her farm will serve as an immediate outlet for her energy.

She is equally at home inspecting a herd of cattle or a frontpage makeup. She plans to devote a good deal of her time to her newspapers. She will spend part of the summer on her Illinois farm with her two daughters, Katrina and Bazie.
Mrs. Katherine Langley, the retiring representative from Kentucky, has taken considerable part in the capital's social life. It is believed in some quarters that she is planning a campaign for re-election. Arranged in evening dress Mrs. Langley looks almost as young as her daughter, Mrs. Katherine Bentley. The two often have been seen together.

ENJOYED DAY IN

MT. CARROLL—
Mrs. George Van Inwegen entertained a group of ladies, Mrs. Alice Beede, Mrs. Herman Rasch and Mrs. W. Keeline of Council Bluffs, Iowa, with a motor trip to Mt. Carroll Monday, where they spent a most enjoyable day.

Guests present were Mrs. Earl Buck and Mrs. Kent, of Franklin Grove; Mrs. Crawford, of Kansas City; and Mrs. Orno Kersten and Mrs. Wesley Altig. Mrs. Buck contributed to the program by giving a fine description of her visit to the university during Farm and Home week. The lesson for February was the last meeting of the Home Management program and the topic was "Household Pests" which was given by the local leader, Mrs. Roy J. Ullrich. The recreation hour was very enjoyable and conducted by Mrs. Frank Butler, Mrs. Andrew Aschenbrenner and Mrs. Charles Ross.

Beautiful Home Wedding Wednesday In Jordan Township

At high noon Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Livingston in Jordan township, their foster daughter, Miss Dorothy Ellen Tucker, and Orville Deets, also of Jordan township, were united in marriage, the Reverend E. C. Harris, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church of Sterling officiating at the beautiful ceremony, in the presence of about twenty guests, almost all of them relatives. Preceding the ceremony Miss Minnie Zigler sang, "I Love You," by Hathaway, and she then played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin."

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride was charming in a bridal gown of delicate pink crepe de chine with silk lace overdraped and flounces. She carried pink carnations and white lilies.

Attending the young couple were two bridesmaids, her sister, Miss Florence Tucker and Miss Louise Sivits; and two groomsmen, Edward and Nolan Deets, brothers of the bridegroom.

Miss Sivits wore a pretty gown in blue crepe de chine, and Miss Florence Tucker wore a lovely gold color crepe de chine.

After the congratulations a delicious wedding luncheon was served to the twenty guests. The decorations in pink and white were very pretty.

Mr. and Mrs. Deets will make their home on a farm in East Jordan township, where they will be followed by the best wishes of hosts of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gumpel were the only out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Last evening the young people of the East Jordan church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston, about one hundred and thirty in number and held a shower for the newlyweds, and they received many lovely gifts with the happy good wishes of their friends. Both Mr. and Mrs. Deets are deservedly popular and delightful young folks. They will be at home to friends on their farm near E. Jordan, this spring.

Buesteton-VanCura Wedding Saturday

Miss Blanche Buesteton, daughter of Asst. Postmaster and Mrs. M. L. Buesteton of Rochelle, and Ray VanCura, were united in marriage at Rockford Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. M. Bannen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ableman.

The bride wore a gown of blue silk crepe with accessories to match. She is one of the most attractive girls in the younger set and her entire life has been spent in Rochelle, where she attended the public schools and high school.

LIGHT BEYOND THE STARS.
 The real poets and artists of this modern world sometimes seem to be the scientists.

Dr. Frederick H. Sears is assistant director of Mount Wilson Observatory in California, and hardly rates as a visionary. But it is just such men as he who dream strange dreams and see bright visions these days, and draw stupendous pictures out of the gulf beyond the stars.

The other day Dr. Sears discovered a cosmic sunset—a tremendous, wildly spectacular affair somewhere beyond the great star Alpha Cygni, several hundred trillion miles away. In that remote region, millions of leagues in extent, some 750 stars are creating a gigantic sunset—throwing bright beams of light through a strange dust cloud, wasting millions of miles of brilliant colors on empty space so profoundly distant that we cannot measure it except in figures that our minds cannot grasp.

There is mystery in it, too, and a hint of undiscovered worlds, just as there is in all good sunsets. For the dying light of these sinking stars is illumined by the edge of one of the most mysterious of all wonders of the heavens; the great "North American" nebula, a dark shape that for some incomprehensible reason bears the shape of the North American continent. Beyond this floating continent the stars go down; and a telescope on a California mountain picks up the glow of a sunset that happened hundreds of years ago.

Now all of this is just a routine pronouncement from a sedate scientist; but it also happens to be the stuff of which poetry, and all high art, is made. For what is it, after all, but the detection in the outer void of a wild and compelling bit of beauty such as Blake might have conjured up? What is it but a piercing of the veil that divides the seen from the unseen, just as poets and all artists have striven to do for many centuries?

Rudyard Kipling, looking ahead to the time when earth's last picture is painted, predicted:

And those that were good shall be happy; they shall sit in a golden chair;
 They shall splash at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comets' hair.

And here, beyond the mysterious North American nebula, it is happening; a prodigious sunset, with the light from hundreds of stars turning a cosmic dust cloud into gold and crimson and amber . . . splashing at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comets' hair . . . material for dreams and visions.

There is no getting around it. It is the scientist who is the poet today.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1950.

Americans will do well to remember the admonition of John Moody, president of a financial and business service, that more people should plan their business and investments for 1950, rather than an expected boom a year or two hence.

Moody points out, as everyone has suspected, that in the natural course of events prosperity will return, but that after the recovery we will experience undue speculation and another slump, just as we have in the past.

"The trouble with us is that we haven't the needed long perspective," he said. "When we buy we should invest our money sanely in sound things and stick to them with a long view ahead—not an overnight turn."

All that sounds rather like a schoolboy's thrift lesson. But everyone will have to admit that the "get-rich-quick" urge is responsible for most of our troubles. Time was when the average man planned on making his fortune over a period of 20 or 30 years. Then came the stock market boom of 1928 and 1929. Investors expected 10 to 100 per cent returns almost overnight.

The bubble burst and, as the current story goes, those who picked lemons in 1929 are selling apples today.

Moody reminds us that the great business and investments fortunes have been made by companies that have grown steadily over a long period.

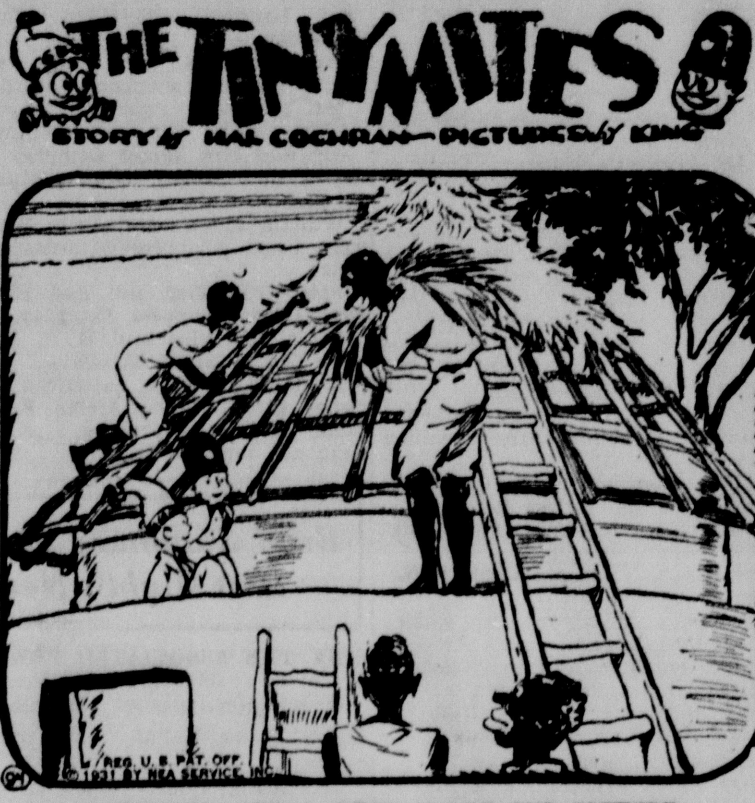

An Arkansas university has two students, one weighing 250 pounds and the other 98. With neither able to wear the other's collars, socks, or shirts they should, indeed, make ideal room-mates.

Maurice Chevalier, according to his publicists, is not so much interested in the $78,000 he's going to get for broadcasting as he is in the drama of the thing. The delicatessen dealer had a word for it.

A foundation has appropriated $100,000 for a study of the history of Pittsburgh. Will it be concerned mostly with the city's dark ages?

When America is plunged into the throes of another boom, Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen will do well to follow big business' example.

Then there's the facetious dry cleaner who advertised: "We're Johnny on the spots."

(READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

"Now that we've seen the diamond mine, I think that it would be just fine to travel on our way again," said Mister Travel Man. "In some new spot we'll try our luck. Let's hop aboard our trusty truck." "All right," replied the Tynmites. Then out to the truck they ran.

The engine started with a roar and they were on their way once more. "Where are we bound for?" Coppy asked. "This road's a winding one. It seems that in the distance there is naught but woods and open air." The Travel Man replied, "Don't fret! We'll have a heap of fun."

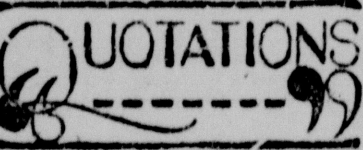

"It's Zululand we're heading for, but there some new sights are in store. The roads are rather bumpy, but we'll get there just the same. You may be joggled around a bit, but that will keep you feeling fit. Before the trip is over you'll be mighty glad we came."

And so they travelled all day long and not a single thing went wrong. Poor Clowny once kicked 'bout the heat and 'twas real hot, at that. But Scouty said, "Oh make the best of what we have. You're coolly dressed. Why don't you try and shade yourself beneath your spreading hat?"

When night time came they all camped out. 'Twas cooler then and just about the finest sort of night to sleep. Each one had needed rest. At dawn they started out again. Someone paid soon spied a hut and then Scouty saw some natives who were very queerly dressed.

"What are they doing?" Scouty cried. The friendly Travel Man replied, "That is a roof they're building. Maybe you can lend a hand. To make sure that the roof's not wrong they make it first and good and strong. And then they build the walls on which the funny roof can stand."

(The Tynmites visit in a Zululander's home in the next story.)

CORREGGIO'S BIRTH

On March 5, 1494, Antonio Allegri Correggio, great Italian painter, was born at Correggio, a small town near Modena, from which the painter received his name.

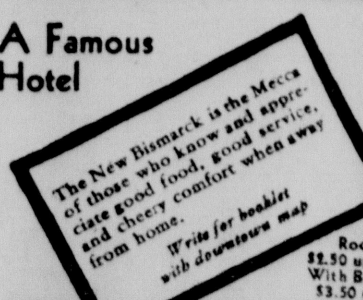

He was the first among the moderns who displayed that grace, softness of effect and that combined excellence of design, color taste and expression in which he is still unsurpassed. His canvases are peculiarly impressive because of his wonderful treatment of light and shade, of which he was the greatest master among Italians.

Almost before he had seen the great masters, he became a master in style all his own. He was the founder of what is called by some the Parma school of painting.

His best works are prized as highly as those of the greatest masters and he is ranked with Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael and Titian among the five most eminent painters of Italy. His "Holy Night," now in the Dresden Museum, is classed among the world's 12 greatest pictures.

THE LAYMEN'S CALL

"And he said unto them, The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few."—Luke 10:2. (Read Luke 10:1-20.)

Meditation
 Only Luke reports the sending out of the seventy. The twelve had already been sent out but they were not enough. The harvest called for more. The service of The Kingdom is no exclusive prerogative of a priestly caste. It is laid upon all who follow Christ and long for a better world. In no community are there reapers enough for the human harvest. The ministry is plainly breaking down under the burdens laid upon it by an indolent but exacting church. A distribution of tasks is called for, which means an enlistment of the men and women who have already signed up if they will remember it. The way to save the church is clear and plain. But the greater question is how to save the harvest, which is plentiful. The seventy are called for. Are you one of them?

Lord of the living harvest, we pray that Thou wilt send more laborers into the field. Give to each one of us the grace of obedience that he may say "Here am I, Lord; send me." Amen.

DO YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
 BY EDSON WAITE
 SHAWNEE CITY

Colonel F. S. Breen, publisher of the Flagstaff, Arizona, Sun, says: "Fifty per cent of the money earners in almost any town in the United States would be fifty per cent better off today if they had never 'invested money' in anything they didn't know anything about."

"Half the men today who are complaining about times being hard and money scarce are themselves directly to blame if times are hard with them and money scarce. If each had the money now he has 'invested' in far-removed development projects about which he had almost never heard except from the high-powered salesmen who got a rich slice of the cash they took from him, he would have far less cause for complaint. I am not referring to listed stocks in which so many met grief a few months ago—that's another story—but to unlisted stocks in most cases floated for the sole purpose of extracting money from suckers."

"Right here in Flagstaff are scores of men who would have looked askance and said 'no' to most requests for investments in home projects that they could have watched and taken a hand in the development of and which in many cases would have succeeded and meant larger pay-rolls, greater population and more prosperity for their town who were unable to say 'no' to salesmen of fake stocks. The money thus squandered away from home amounts to millions of dollars—that is no exaggeration. Not in one case in twenty has one of these 'investors' ever received a cent in dividends on these 'investments.' Not in one case in fifty could he now sell these stocks for five cents on the dollar he paid. In many cases the man's total 'investments' of this kind total more than the net value of everything he owns today."

"Ability to say 'no' to strangers is any man's best business insurance."

STORY OF OPEN-FACED GANGSTER ACTIVITY WED.

Senate Gets Further Details Of Wickersham Investigation

By JOHN F. CHESTER
Washington, Mar. 4.—(AP)—A story of open-faced gangster activities, far-flung governmental corruption and wholesale liquor law violations was unfolded today before the Senate.

Drawn from the files of the Wickersham Commission by a Senate resolution, the testimony spread through surveys of prohibition conditions in Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Louisiana and Colorado. Only in the latter state was dry law enforcement termed "satisfactory."

Some highlights in the mass of data were:

A gangster map of Chicago.

The names of 330 alleged Chicago "racketeers," 113 of them now dead, with each listed under such headings as "dynamiter and bomb thrower," or "booze and beer."

The reported discovery of "large quantities of poison dipped bullets" in the reputed headquarters of "the Al Capone outfit."

Reports of gambling operations in New Orleans so widespread as to make bootlegging there a "piker racket."

Figures designed to show violations of the prohibition laws throughout much of New York state so flagrant that 93 per cent of the criminal cases came under these laws.

"Cafeteria Court"

A description of a New York "cafeteria court."

A report that present-day liquor interests in New Jersey "partly enslave" the political forces there and are strong enough to defy eradication for perhaps 10 years.

While this data lay before the Senate, members of the Wickersham Commission met today in the second session since the completion of their now historic prohibition report.

Faced with the necessity of completing their entire survey of crime and recommendations for its cure before July 1, the members had before them a report on "statistics of crime and criminal justice," prepared by Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard. They planned to consider also a survey of "penal institutions, probation and parole," directed by Monte Lemann, New Orleans lawyer, who alone of the 11 members refused to sign the prohibition report.

The five state surveys now before the Senate came from the commission piecemeal late yesterday. They arrived with a note from Chairman Wickersham indicating four similar reports were still to come, covering Massachusetts, California, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Investigator in Fear

By far the most detailed survey submitted, the Illinois report was signed with an assumed name, "Guy L. Nichols." Those who knew the former prohibition investigator said he feared gang reprisals.

Covering every principal city he characterized the Mayor of Peoria as of "the old saloon-type," reported the Sheriff of Rockford entertained bootleggers in his office, and said prostitutes solicited openly near the Springfield police headquarters.

In his Chicago report, "Nichols" included a score of snapshots he had taken of reputed gangster hangouts, one of them the Hotel Lexington.

"The entire second floor," he said, is occupied by the Capone outfit, x x Lieutenant Blah of the State's Attorney's office in April 1930 x x made a raid and discovered a large conference room with a long table and chairs reinforced with armor plated backs.

"Large quantities of poison dipped bullets but no guns were found. Neither were any of the Capone outfit about. There was strong indications of a 'tip-off'."

Mr. Nichols found "inefficient enforcement" throughout all down-state Illinois, asserting that the fault lies in the police system, courts, prosecutors, and even in the law. Mr. Nichols said fifty-two of the sheriffs of the most populous counties are either inefficient or lax in enforcement.

Black Skies Bring White Raincoats

White raincoats are the smartest thing young folks, and older, can wear when skies are dark this spring. Two of the new models are made of rubberized lustrous white broadcloth, accented with black buttons and collars. (Left) The long rain-coat, reminiscent of the good old army nurses' capes, is a new spring feature for adults. This one has a scarf collar of black and a white umbrella with black handle and spokes to match up. (Right) The popular trench coat type of raincoat is ever popular with young and old. This one, gleaming white, has shiny black buttons, belt and collar.

"At Springfield the Mayor makes little if any effort to enforce the prohibition law," the report states. "The State's Attorney is lax in the prosecution of liquor cases. Prostitution is tolerated by the authorities."

Rockford A Cog

"Your investigator found evidence that liquor violators at East St. Louis were organized along the line of the modern corporation. Using this territory as a base, with connections in Springfield, Rockford, Chicago, and other cities."

Danville, Bloomington, Quincy and Joliet are cited as equally bad.

"Rockford is indeed a cog in the liquor wheel," Nichols asserted. "It is said at least two bootleggers carry Deputy Sheriff's stars. Larger bootleggers frequently are ushered into the Sheriff's private office and apparently receive a good deal of attention."

The State's Attorney and Sheriff of Peoria county make no attempt to enforce the liquor laws," charges Mr. Nichols. "Enforcement of the liquor law is a political impossibility with them."

CUBS MAY REGAIN LOST LAURELS

Four National League Clubs Have Chance to Win Pennant

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Mar. 5—(UP)—Gaby Street and his St. Louis Cardinals are faced with a herculean task in their effort to retain the National League championship which they won in 1930.

In order to win a second successive pennant, the Cards not only must defeat four formidable opponents—Brooklyn, Chicago, Pittsburgh and New York—but they must overcome league traditions against champions repeating; against St. Louis winning in an "odd" year; and against the New York Giants going more than 6 years without a pennant.

No National League team has won two successive pennants since the Giants were dethroned in 1925. Pittsburgh took the flag in 1925 and 1927 and Chicago in 1929, with St. Louis winning in the "even" years, 1926, 1928 and 1930. St. Louis never has topped the league in an "odd" year and to do so this season the Cards must shatter another long standing record—that of the Giants who in more than a quarter century under John McGraw have played in the world series at least once every seven years.

Street has little respect for the traditions, but admits that the strong opposition to be encountered makes the 1931 race a "see-for-all." Four clubs, Chicago, New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, finished the 1930 campaign close on the heels of the Cardinals and but for injuries any one of the contenders might have been champion.

All the runners-up have repaired the weak links of their 1930 machines and the 1931 campaign promises another hectic fight for honors. The five teams appear so evenly matched that for the first time in baseball history winter book proprietors have refused to nominate a favorite. Current odds make the Cards, Cubs and Robins joint favorites at 5 to 2, with the Pirates and Giants only a point behind at 6 to 2. Even money is the best offer against second place prospects of any of the five clubs.

The Cardinals and Giants apparently have added less strength than their rivals. Except for Pitchers Dean and Kaufmann and a rookie understudy for First Baseman Jim Bottomley the Cards present the same front as in 1930. The Giants are depending chiefly upon rookies and unless Vergez proves good enough to take third base and release Fred Lindstrom for outfield work McGraw can hope for little improvement.

Acquisition of Outfielder Lefty O'Doul and Second Baseman Fresno Thompson has plugged the only weak spots in Brooklyn's lineup and gives Manager Robinson a team of championship calibre. The Pittsburgh Pirates have rounded out a great club through the addition of Shortstop Thevenow, Second Baseman Regan and Pitcher Willoughby and are certain to be a serious contender.

Weak pitching and the absence of Rogers Hornsby in 1930 cost the Cubs many more than the two games which separated them from the Cardinals and prevented them from winning a second successive pennant. With Hornsby back in the lineup, the addition of the veteran pitchers Bob Smith, Lee Sweetland and Jackie May and several promising rookies the Cubs have excellent prospects of regaining their lost laurels.

Basketball Gossip

By United Press
Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Mar. 5—(UP)—Hack Wilson and his slugging mates of the Chicago Cubs, looked at curve balls yesterday for the first timethis season when they went through a long siege of batting practice. After two weeks of preparation, each of the 16 pitchers was ready to start hooking them. A practice game between the Yannisians and dregs of the team was played today. San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 5—(UP)—

Manager Donie Bush of the White Sox is highly pleased with the showing made by Catcher Butch Henline. Henline, purchased from Toledo at the end of last season, has been going great since practice opened.

"Henline doesn't look like the same fellow that was with the Robins when I was managing Pittsburgh," Bush said. "Casey Stengel made a real catcher out of him at Toledo."

Chicago, Mar. 5—(UP)—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, former light-heavyweight champion, has been offered a match with the winner of the Tuffy Griffiths-King Levinsky heavyweight bout at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Matchmaker Nate Lewis said today.

Lewis hopes to stage a match between the winner of the Griffiths-Levinsky bout and Loughran at the Stadium in April, and then pair the ultimate victor against Jack Sharkey of Boston here in June.

Chicago, Mar. 5—(UP)—H. O. (Pat) Page, former Indiana football coach, has been named baseball coach at the University of Chicago. Director A. A. Staggs has announced. Coach Nelson Nogren, who took over the team a year ago when Fritz Crisler went to Minnesota as athletic director and football coach, is coach of the Maroon basketball team and only served in a temporary capacity. Page is now at the Chicago White Sox training camp at San Antonio, Tex., but will return to take over the Maroons about March 20.

Kansas City, Mo., Mar. 5—(UP)—Forty-seven teams from throughout the country were entered today in the National A. U. basketball tournament to be played in Kansas City.

Dr. J. A. Kelly, national chairman, announced it would be necessary to play preliminary rounds Saturday to cut the entry list for the regular tournament beginning Monday. Eighteen states were represented by the teams already entered.

Avalon, Cal., Mar. 5—(AP)—Whatever improvement the Chicago Cubs show over last season, if any, apparently must come from the pitching staff and the return of Manager Rogers Hornsby to the lineup.

The infield will be just as it was expected to be last season before Lester Bell and Hornsby were injured. They will be at third and second, respectively, with Woody English at short, and Charlie Grimm at first base.

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 5—(AP)—Manager Donie Bush is becoming pessimistic over the question of who will play first base for the Chicago White Sox this year. Ray Radcliffe, from Selma of the late South-Eastern League, is the only bona fide candidate. If he fails to produce it is likely that John Watwood will be called in from the outfield for the job.

Bradenton, Fla., Mar. 5—(AP)—Although Chick Hafey still is in California holding out for more pay, Manager Gaby Street of the Cardinals believes the slugging outfielder will come to terms and be a regular again this year. Taylor Douthett and George Watkins are favored for the other outfield posts, but they face stiff competition from "Pepper" Martin, Ernie Orsatti, Joel Hunt, Ray Blades and Al Moore.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 5—(AP)—If Goose Goslin proves himself as good a teacher as he is a batter, the St. Louis Browns' attack this year should show some power. Goslin has taken it upon himself to instruct Betencourt, the Texas League home run king, in the finer points of the art of hitting and the results so far have been satisfactory to Manager Bill Killefer.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 5—(AP)—Babe Ruth has 33 bats, but because "there isn't a good one in the lot," he has ordered six more.

The more Manager Joe McCarty sees of his New York Yankees, the better he likes them. Yesterday he expressed considerable satisfaction at the power in Catcher Bill Dickey's batting and in the flashy work of Bill Werber, young shortstop who came to the Yanks from Duke University by way of Albany.

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 5—(AP)—Freddie Lindstrom, former third baseman of the New York Giants, thinks he knows a lot about his new role as right fielder now. Freddy had one fly ball hit his way yesterday and lost it in the sun.

"That settles it," he commented. "I'm a natural outfielder. I feel like Hack Wilson."

Lindy also said he had sent for a football helmet to wear until he got a little more experience.

Call Meeting to Discuss Future

Chicago, March 5—(UP)—Differences between the Western conference and the North Central Association, which has attempted to investigate athletics at five Big Ten schools, will be discussed at a meeting of the presidents of the Big Ten to be held here this month, it became known today.

The meeting will be held at the requests of President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern. The official announcement of the impending meeting said, in part:

"Recently there has been developing in the North Central Association a movement to take hold of matters heretofore handled by the conference and the whole problem has come to a head at Northwestern. It is on this question that Northwestern desires advice. It should be distinctly understood that the proposed meeting did not grow out of any charges against Northwestern or any other institution."

The North Central association, an organization of which practically every college and university between the Alleghenies and Rockies is a member, originally was formed to bring about a scholastic standard between the schools. It has, however, attempted recently to regulate athletics and brought about the abandonment of the national interscholastic basketball tournament of the University of Chicago.

The school's investigation regarding athletics by the North Central group were Northwestern, Ohio State, Illinois, Minnesota and Chicago. The committee of investigation was headed by C. W. Savage of Oberlin, who has long favored intramural athletics over inter-collegiate competition.

San Antonio Begins Six-Day Celebration

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 4—(UP)—Glamorous with 200 years of history under six flags, San Antonio today turned back the calendar two centuries to begin an elaborate six-day celebration of its birthday.

The old place of Spanish governors, long in ruins at the edge of the military plaza, here, has been restored as it was when it housed the representatives of His Most Catholic Majesty.

Months were spent in reconstructing the palace and the attics of San Antonio's first families were ransacked to furnish it in keeping with history.

Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York will bless and dedicate the palace this evening after a pageant depicting the arrival here from the Canary Islands of the 16 original settlers of San Antonio 200 years ago today.

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

- (1) Cheap tobaccos.
- (2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.
- (3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidifier and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

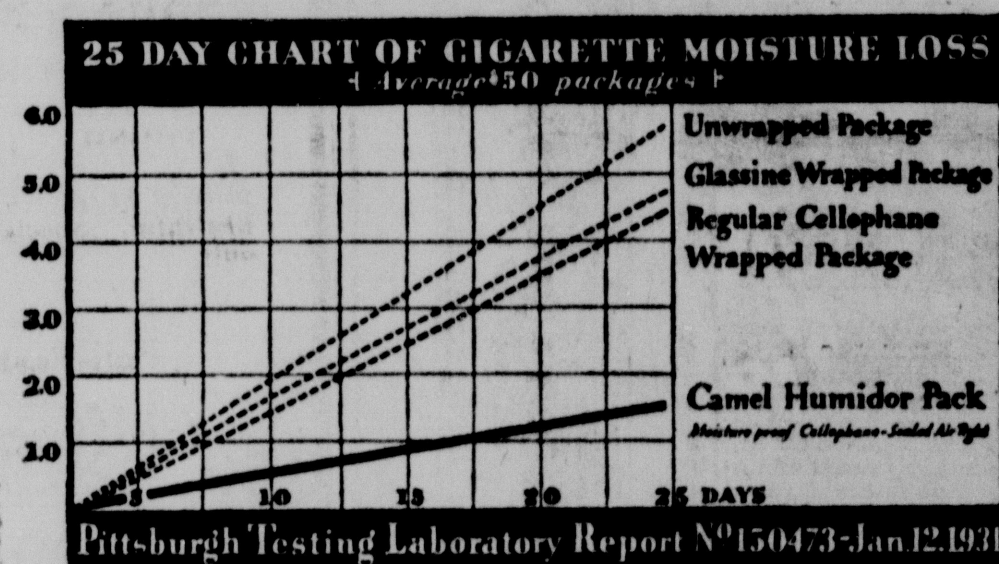

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

- (A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.
- (B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.
- (C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection. (D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

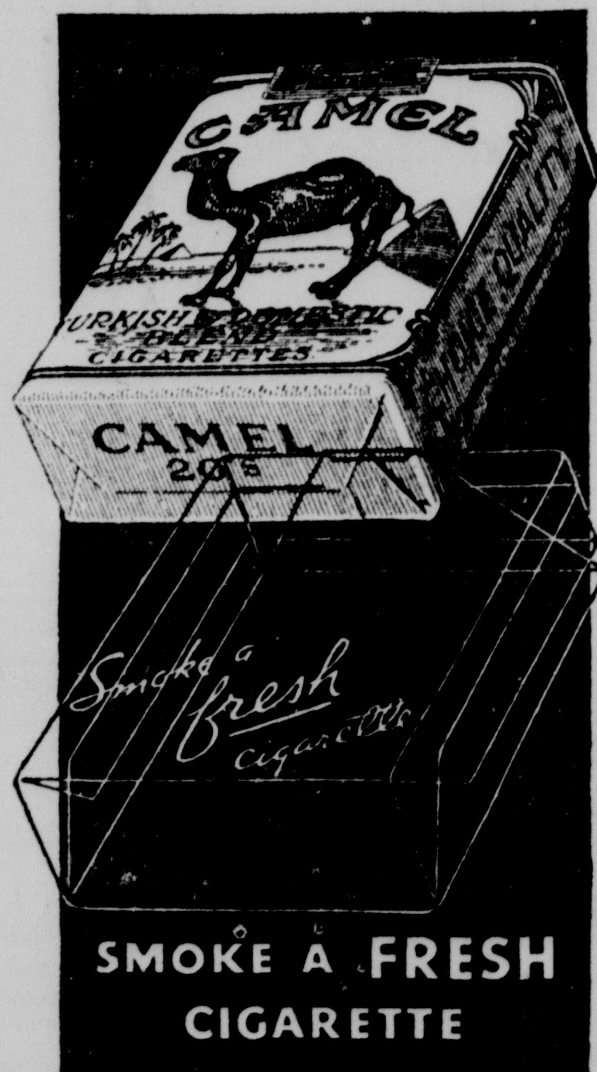

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

HEAVIES WILL EXCHANGE BLOWS MIAMI TONIGHT

Carnera, Maloney Head Bill To Be Staged At Florida Resort

By ALAN GOULD.

Miami, Fla., Mar. 5.—(AP)—To the somewhat fantastic history of this famous winter playground, the boys were prepared to add the 10-round battle of the cracked rib tonight, featuring the ponderous from Italy, Primo Carnera, and the Irish man from Boston, Jimmy Maloney.

Miami and its ocean front neighbor, Miami Beach, have known the peak of boxing's boom days. Two years ago the Stribling-Sharkey bout drew over $400,000. The downward slide since then has been marked by the Sharkey-Scott fiasco, a losing venture of 1930, and the financial distress attending the Walker-Risko show a week ago in the Madison Square Garden stadium.

Carnera's return bout with Maloney has failed to stimulate either the local fight pulse or the cash customers from elsewhere. Promoter Frank J. Bruen continued optimistic today in the hope he might at least break even. An unseasonable drop in temperature has chilled the prospects for tonight.

Primo will have upwards of a 65-pound pull in the weights, doctor in his corner to treat his damaged rib and instructions to try for an early knockout.

The preliminary card is headed by an eight round match between Maxie Rosenbloom of New York, light-heavyweight champion, and Marty Gallagher of Washington, D. C. Rosenbloom's title is not at stake.

Promoter Bruen forbade ringside broadcasting and fixed the main go for a bout 10 P. M. (Eastern Time.)

McGRAW BOASTS HARD-HITTING CREW THIS YEAR

Giant Manager Lining Up Forces With Visions Of Pennant, Report

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer
San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 5.—(AP)—Boasting one of the heaviest hitting lineups in the major leagues last season, the New York Giants could finish no better than third. The veteran master mind, John J. McGraw, blames the loss of a pennant on the weakness of his reserves and the fact that several capable pitchers, for some unaccountable reason, failed to win.

Thus, instead of making some wholesale changes, the Little Napoleon has decided to stand pat in preparation for the 1931 National League race. He visions a hot five-club battle for the title and is girding for the fray. He reached camp earlier and is working harder than he has in years. He has failed to win a pennant in six years and doesn't like it.

Unless some youngster strikes the McGraw mind mightily, there likely will not be a change from the 1930 lineup. It is a flag contender as it stands, providing the pitchers come through.

With Memphis Bill Terry, the league batting leader, at first; Hughie Critz at second, Travis Jackson at short and Freddie Lindstrom at third, the Giants have one of baseball's great infields. They hit, respectively, .401, .260, .338 and .379 last year. What Critz didn't hit, he made up in fielding brilliance.

McGraw was thinking of shifting Lindstrom to the outfield and inserting Urban Pickering, a lusty hitter from Birmingham, but some of the best minds doubt he will do it. Eddie Barshall, who hit 309 in 78 games last year, again will hold the utility role. Sam Leslie, last year's Texas League batting leader, and John Vergez, a third sacker from Oakland, complete the infield array.

There isn't a chance of breaking into two outfield jobs. They will be patrolled by Melvin Ott and Fred Leach a pair of the best. The third post, centerfield, promises to fall to Charles "Chick" Pullis if he has recovered from an early injury last year. If Pullis is not ready to step in, there are some capable reinforcements. Leading the list is Ethian Allen, the former Cincinnati Red, who finished in the utility role last year. Harry Rosenberg, a 300 hitter from San Francisco; James Bryan, from Springfield, and Joe Moore, who came up from San Antonio, also are on hand.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Carl Hubbell and Bill Walker form the nucleus of McGraw's pitching staff. Between them, they turned in 53 victories against 34 setbacks last season and were listed among the topnotchers of their league. Pete Donohue, Joe Genewich, Joe Hising, Clarence Mitchell and Herbert Pruitt round out a veteran crop of fingers. Donohue and Genewich were disappointments to McGraw last year, both finishing in the red but the Giants' boss is counting on them strongly this year.

Of eleven other various and assorted hurlers the most promising are John Berly leading pitcher of the Rochester club last year, and Leroy Parmelee, a fast baller who was on the bench most of 1930. Jim Chaplin, who won two out of eight starts late in the year, also is a possibility. Francis Hogan and Bob O'Farrell again will be the bulwarks of the catching staff. They divided duty last year, Hogan slamming the ball at a 239 clip and O'Farrell for 301. Francis Healey, with Bridgeport last season, and Francis Laveque from San Antonio battle it out for the third string job.

U. P. SELECTS ALL-WESTERN CAGE STARS

Northwestern Leads in Selections On Mythical Basketball Squad

Chicago, Mar. 5.—(UP)—Five schools placed men on the United Press All-Western conference basketball team selected by the ten coaches and announced today.

With only five games left to play and Northwestern in possession of its first basketball title in history, the season is virtually over despite the fact that the schedule will not be complete until Monday.

The selection follows:

Second team—Riel, Northwestern; f; Loose, Minnesota; f; McCarnes, Northwestern; c; Marshall, Northwestern; g; Owen, Illinois; g; Allenhof, Michigan.

Joe Riel, Northwestern star, was the only unanimous choice of all ten coaches. Six coaches picked as a forward and the other four named him as a center.

Schoening, Minnesota's long shot artist, and Wooden, Purdue, who was an all-conference man in his sophomore year last season received the second highest number of votes, six coaches placing them on their first team.

Daniels, Michigan, who received the center position, was named by four coaches for that position and by two others as forward.

Fesler, Ohio State's great all-around athlete, who was awarded five votes, nosing out Marshall, Northwestern by one ballot.

Riel, Northwestern and Loose, Minnesota the second team forwards each received three votes. McCarnes, Northwestern, the only other center named by the coaches, got two votes.

Owen, Illinois and Allenhof, Michigan, tied with two votes each for the other second team berth at guard.

Knox Co. Farmers Set High Record

Urbana, Ill.—(UP)—Although the state as a whole showed a reduced tonnage last year in the amount of limestone spread on farmland, Knox county farmers set a new record by placing almost 3,000 tons more of limestone than they did in 1929, according to a report by C. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

A soil testing and mapping project sponsored by the college extension service and carried out under direction of Farm Adviser A. R. Kemp, of Knox county, is credited with the 39 per cent increase which the farmers of that section made in their tonnage. They used 7,300 tons as compared to 4,700 tons in 1929.

Seven thousand acres of farm land belonging to 272 different farmers of the county were tested and mapped in connection with the project, Linsley reported.

MALDEN LIFTS BAN ON POLITICAL TOPICS

Malden, Mass.—(UP)—This city's policemen, firemen and other municipal employees may talk politics to their heart's content as result of an order passed recently by the City Council.

When Mayor William A. Hastings ruled that any city worker who took an active part in politics would be discharged, he was charged with exceeding his authority. Subsequently the City Council adopted the order declaring there should be no curtailing of free speech among employees.

EXPECTATION

Written for the Christian Science Monitor
 "It's like a flower bulb, where you can see nothing at all of what it's going to be—It's such a lovely, darling mystery."

Even if your eyes could look it through and through.
 There's not a thing inside that would tell you
 Whatever it is going to be or do.
 It keeps its secret just as if it knew.

How sweet surprises are. And yet you know
 That out of it both roots and leaves will grow.
 And in between the leaves a bud will show
 Which, hour by hour, into a flower must blow.

Perhaps 'twill be a golden daffy, gay;
 Perhaps a tulip all in rich array;
 Or a sweet freesia, ringing in the day
 With fragrant bells, or Lily bowed to pray.

For just such lovely things are tucked inside
 Of every dry, brown bulb, where they abide Quite hidden. And to find them where they hide.
 Warm light and water sweet you must provide.

So, when a new day comes, or a new year,
 Abloom with happiness, I seem to hear
 A little flower-like whisper, faint but clear—
 "So glad to find you waiting for me, dear!"

Civic Music Asso. Is Now on the Air

The consistent growth of the Civic Music Plan since it was originated ten years ago, by Dena E. Harshbarger, has been most gratifying to all those associated with it. It has been the desire of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., sole owners of the plan, to increase from time to time its service and activities.

It will therefore interest members of the Dixon Civic Music Association to know that the National Broadcasting Company—America's foremost broadcasting company—has acquired an extensive interest in the Civic Concert Service, Inc., bringing together, in a common interest, the great Artist Service of the National Broadcasting Company, the RCA Victor Company (whose list is the most important artist list in existence) and the Civic Concert Service, Inc., (serving more cities than any other organization in the world.)

Wonder If Business Women Are Bored?

Chicago, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Socially, are business women bored?

Members of the women's advertising club heard the question debated by four business women.

Said Mrs. Bernice Challenger Post, one of the negative team:

"If the business and professional woman is a social bore, why are so many prominent women in the social set deserting the ranks of society to enter business and professions?"

From Miss Ida Chesbro of the affirmative:

"The business woman's mind is over-stimulated and this is reflected in her personality. She is not amusing. She makes a poor dinner partner, as she never mastered the art of small talk."

Who won, if anybody, was not disclosed.

F. F. Club Entertained Saturday Afternoon

The F. F. club was pleasantly entertained last Saturday afternoon by Miss Helen Kennedy. The time was spent playing bridge; Dorothy Irey being winner of high honors and Bernice Schindberg the consolation prize.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room, the table looking very spring-like with its pink and white decoration. The girls on leaving for their homes all agreed that this had been one of their most pleasant meetings.

EGG CARRIES FINE PORTRAIT OF WOMAN—

Gonzales, Tex.—(UP)—A hen egg, bearing the distinct feature of a woman with a half smile on her face and her left arm upraised, was exhibited here today by Mrs. D. M. Livingston.

The artistic prowess of the Rhode Island Red hen was discovered when Mrs. Livingston peeled the shell from a hard-boiled egg she was preparing for a salad. The picture looked as if it had been traced on the egg with a needle point.

OLD TATTING RETURNS ON SPRING DRESSES—

Paris.—(AP)—Old-fashioned tating has come back to fashion.
 Some of the new spring sports and afternoon frocks have collars, cuffs and tucks edged with a row of fine tating in simple loop design. The tating generally matches the color of the frock.

One of Foremost Chamber Music Ensembles

When the Gordon String Quartet appears here on Mar. 16, at the M. E. church at 8 o'clock P. M. local music lovers will have the opportunity to hear an organization which, through young in point of existence, ranks as one of the foremost chamber music ensembles of the day.

The Gordon String Quartet came into existence in 1921, when Jacques Gordon became concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Gordon was in his early twenties at the time, and had only recently finished his studies with the famous Franz Kneisel, known for a quarter of a century the world over as the founder and first violinist of the incomparable Kneisel String Quartet. Gordon's own predilection for chamber music had been fanned into strong enthusiasm by his association with this great master of the art, and he consequently lost little time on his arrival in Chicago before organizing a quartet with certain of his associates in the orchestra.

In the lakeside city he found fertile soil for his activities, and it was not long before the excellent playing and interesting programs of the group had firmly established the foursome in the high regard of audiences and critics. After eight years the popularity of the quartet had reached a point where Mr. Gordon found it advisable to retire from his position as concertmaster of this great orchestra, and devote himself entirely to the interests of his string quartet.

His associations in the enterprise are all young, eager and gifted, like himself, Joseph Vieland, has been at the first desk of the viola section of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra for the past six years. He was born in Vienna, but spent the early part of his youth in Odessa. He and Mr. Gordon were schoolmates at the Imperial Conservatory in that city and have been associated ever since.

Edwin Eidler, second violinist of the quartet, was born and educated in Cincinnati. He went to Berlin to complete his musical studies and then lived in Honolulu for a number of years. During the war he served with the American army. He played with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and the Lenox String Quartet before joining Mr. Gordon.

Nahoum Benditsky, cellist, left Russia during the difficult period following the war. He settled for a time in Syria, where he taught in the American College at Beirut. Later he made his way to Paris. He came to this country in 1921 and became a member of the Gordon String Quartet the same year.

In the past the Quartet has had the honor of being invited to give twelve concerts under the auspices of the Library of Congress and has been selected by Mrs. E. S. Coolidge, the great patron of chamber music, for recitals at Yale University, the Boston Public Library, and the festival at the Congressional Library in Washington. In the comparatively brief period of its existence, it has presented more new works by contemporary composers than any other string quartet in the country, at the same time not neglecting the great masters of the past. It has given first American performances of works by Schoenberg, Louis Gruenberg, Faure, Gretschaninow, Casella, Sowerby, Emerson, Whitthorne, Milhaud, Bloch, Malpiero and Kodaly. During the present season it will give first performances of works by Frederick Stock, Alexander Glazunow and Beek.

Their many friends extend best wishes for many more years of happy married life.

The Phidian Art club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. A. McNichols.

Mrs. I. B. Hoefler in her paper on "The Art of Rome" told in a very interesting manner of the life of "Michaelangelo" (Bunarrotti) sculptor, painter, and architect.
 Miss Jane Hoefler entertained with several piano selections, which were very ably rendered, and greatly enjoyed by all present. Miss Georgiana Shaw also was to have appeared on program, but due to a cold, was confined to her home.

A family dinner was held at the home Sunday at which 24 guests were present. A number of friends and relatives also visited them during the day, congratulating them on this remarkable occasion. In the evening about 35 friends gave them a surprise by calling at their home. Mr. Burkardt and Miss Mary Dinges were united in marriage at St. Mary's Catholic church in Sublette on Feb. 23, 1881. Divorce the Result Of Mutual Selfishness

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 5.—(UP)—Selfishness of husbands and wives was blamed by Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York for the increase in divorces in this country.

Cardinal Hayes is guest of honor here at the bicentennial celebration of the city.
 "Divorce is nothing but the result of selfishness," said Cardinal Hayes. "Some people sacrifice their own children in order to go their own ways, and what is more noble in this world than the development of children?"

Take Your Choice Of Spring Coats— They're Light Or Dark, Plain Or Fancy

By DIANA MERWIN
 (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

Paris.—(AP)—Figures, fancies and finances have influenced designs for new spring coats.

The variety of models from which the smart woman may choose her Easter coat presents a choice to fit almost any figure, taste and pocket-book, for the spring mode displays coats, light and dark, fitted or straight, fur-trimmed or plain.

There are dark blue, black and brown pebbly weave wool coats for street wear designed with fitted waistlines and slightly flared skirts. Some have simple reverse collars, while others are designed with V-necks without any collar at all.

The majority lack belts, although the heels in the back. It is snug fitting and has straight lines with the belt at the normal waist line instead of high.

Used with a bolero jacket of gold metal cloth lined with sapphire blue velvet it is ideal for afternoon teas. The jacket has a collar of squirrel fur.

BRACELET BELTS CHIC FOR FROCKS—

Paris.—(AP)—Bracelet belts are a new gadget for spring frocks. They are designed of simulated jades, coral and turquoises combined with black or white crystal links and worn tightly clasped about the waist.

narrow suede or crushed patent leather belts are seen on some.

For the dressy woman there are oiled smooth-finished wools designed with waist-length capes bordered in lynx or fox and green, brown and blue models finished with high standing fur collars.

Apple green, pastel pink and pearl grey broadcloth coats collared in blue fox and designed with fitted or semi-straight lines are presented for formal afternoon wear with matching crepe frocks.

Sports coats in flecked or diagonal weaves are often designed with scarf collars banded with brown, or grey astrakhan.

Coats for spring wear are worn 11 to 13 inches from the ground, one inch longer than the dress.

Frocks of champagne crepe de chine, natural and white shantung are often finished with such belts.

LOOSE CLOTHING AIDS WOMEN FIGHT FLU—

London.—(UP)—Women are far less susceptible to influenza than men because of their sensible, loose clothing, British medical men have discovered.

During a recent influenza wave here, men victims were far more numerous than women. Dr. Alfred C. Jordan, secretary of the Men's Dress Reform Party attributed men's susceptibility to the disease largely to their tight-fitting collars, vests and coats.

RIN GRATEFULS ADORE TROUSSEAU—

Paris.—(AP)—Wedding ring patterned silks are Paris' latest offering for the trousseaux of young brides. The silks have dark grounds, printed with figures of two light rings overlapping each other.

Black and dark blue silks with white and beige rings, and bottle green crepes with pale gold rings are favorite color combinations.

PARIS FASHIONS

By MARY KNIGHT
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 4.—(UP)—Necklines are one of the most variable things about fashions as outlined for 1931. There are unusual cuts running the gamut from the simplest snippings here and there to the most bizarre arrangements revealing only a tiny circle of throat in front and cutting designs in material all over the back.

The greatest field for variety of neckline, is of course, on the evening gown, and in addition to criss-crossings of tissues and jewels there are also symmetric drapings that give the gown the appearance of being one single width of material draped from head to toe without cutting in any one place.

Venetian necklaces of silver and colored enamel have drawn much attention to their extreme flatness and convenience for general wear.

With silver as the main material the black, vermilion, or bright green design in enamel lends the right note of color for a somber costume. They are usually about an inch wide all the way around, tapering occasionally toward the back.

Pendants that look ponderous are novelties for it is always a surprise to find them almost feather-weight. They are done in an opaque crystalline substance, very Einsteinian in cut, and suspended on a black silk cord.

MRS. OWEN LIKES SMARTNESS IN BLACK—

Washington.—(AP)—Representative Ruth Bryan Owen appeared at a recent evening party in a dancing frock of black tulle made with many bouffant ruffles. With it she wore black slippers with high heels studded with imitation diamonds.

Mrs. Owen always dresses in black but is noted for the variety and smartness of her costumes.

70 BRICKS EASIER LOAD

London.—(UP)—It is less of a strain on the arms to wheel 70 bricks in a barrow than 60, Dr. G. P. Crowden, lecturer, said in an address at the National Institute of Industrial Psychology here. He warned his listeners that there was an art and a science in walking, explaining that 64 per cent of muscular effort could be saved by proceeding at a brisk pace rather than attempting to hurry an unwilling body.

WORK A PLEASURE

SINCE GLY-CAS

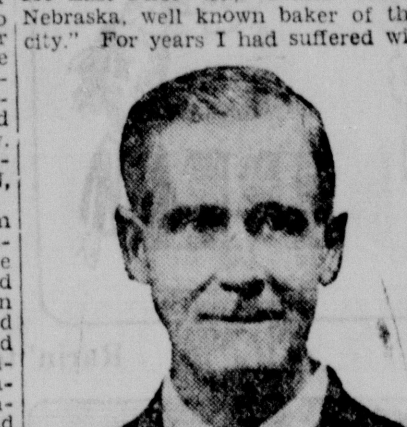

RESTORED HEALTH

Had Spent Hundreds of Dollars Without Results; Herbal Gly-Cas Ends Rheumatism, Stomach, Bowel Trouble.

"Too much cannot be said in praise of Gly-Cas," said Mr. D. Rayburn, 216 East First St., Grand Island, Nebraska, well known baker of that city. "For years I had suffered with rheumatism settled in my arms and shoulders, at times I was unable to work. Constipation, stomach trouble added to my miserable condition, bloated, gas crowded my heart and pained something awful. I hardly knew what a good night's sleep was until about a month ago when I was taking Gly-Cas. I had spent hundreds of dollars without any real results and was on a diet continually but now thanks to Gly-Cas I am well, never bothered with gas or bloating, my bowels are regular, that awful rheumatism has left me entirely, and I sleep fine. It is a pleasure to work now since Gly-Cas has restored my health."

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

Author of "HEART HUNGRY," etc.

"GYPSY," she said, "you're looking wonderful! I guess it's because you're so happy. You're in love with him, aren't you?"

"The curling lashes fluttered. No use to try to hide the dancing light in those brown eyes, the glow of happiness which shone from every feature of Gypsy McBride's impetuous little face.

"Well, what do you think?" said Gypsy.

"Oh, I hope you'll be so happy! Do you—when are you going to be married?"

It was an awkward moment. Then the girl at the door mastered her confusion and laughed tremulously.

"I'll tell you all about it later! Have to run!"

SHE hurried down the hall and caught the elevator car just as it was descending. In another five minutes she was in a taxicab headed for the pier.

"Hurry," she told the driver. "I've got to meet someone and I'm late."

"Do the best I can, Ma'am."

Folded away in Gypsy's handbag, rather the worse for wear, was a letter. She had read it, several times that morning. The letter had been read and reread frequently ever since its arrival five days before. The address was written in a bold, masculine hand and the postmark was Paris.

She knew the words by heart. "Dead Gypsy," Alan had said, "in 10 days I'll be home. I've just come from the steamship office and this is probably the last note I'll be able to get off before sailing. The boat is the DeGrasse and we get in Saturday noon. Believe me, it will seem great to be back. I haven't realized until these last two weeks just exactly how anxious I am to see New York. Anxious to see you, too, Gypsy. I wonder if I'll know you!"

"I've been saving the best news until last. Didn't tell you I'd submitted some sketches to the Thomas Advertising Agency. Did I? Well, they liked them. We've had an exchange of letters and the result is that Monday morning, just about 48 hours after landing, I'm to report for my new job. It won't be much money at first, but once they realize the exceptional talent of this young man known as Alan Crosby of course things will be different. Anyhow, jobs for young artists are scarce. It makes the future a lot brighter knowing there's a regular pay check ahead."

"It certainly will be great to see you again, Gypsy. Do your eyes still have little sparks of red gold in them and is your hair still long? I hope so. Do you still like butter cakes and long walks on Sunday afternoons? There are so many other things I want to talk about but they'll wait. You'll have to tell me all the news and I'll try to impress you with my French. All 13 words! We'll have a party. Thinking about home is going to make these next 10 days harder than ever to wait. Guess I'd better stop before I burst into poetry. So long, Gypsy. I'll be seeing you! As ever—Alan."

TO other girls it might not seem much of a love letter. They would be young women of course without the memory of Alan Crosby, tall and handsome, his black hair tossed carelessly back from his forehead as he glanced up from his drawing board and smiled that good natured, teasing smile. They would be young women who knew nothing of fine days in the open country, swinging along the road with the best of companions—Alan; of gay and impromptu parties; of Sunday morning breakfasts cooked over a tiny stove, of sketching expeditions; of long, long talks (thrusting out the world's problems).

There was nothing at all unusual about the friendship Gypsy saw him for the first time on the stairway of the Twelfth street rooming house which was her home. She barely glanced at him. Another day Mrs. Callahan, who roomed across the hall, confided to Gypsy that the new lodger was an artist. Mrs. Callahan had got it straight from Mrs. O'Hare, the landlady. The fourth time Gypsy passed the young man in the hallway he stopped her and asked if she would pose for a sketch.

She agreed. From the very first the young couple liked each other. Gypsy learned that Crosby attended night art classes and worked days in a dry cleaning shop. He found her a splendid subject for sketches and made dozens of drawings of the girl. Evenings when Crosby was not at classes they read or walked or went to inexpensive movies. Mrs. O'Hare with unheeded generosity allowed them to use her gas stove to cook occasional late suppers.

When Crosby won the scholarship which took him to Paris Gypsy was first to hear the news, lost in her congratulations. It didn't relieve the pangs of parting when the final separation came but Gypsy was so sure Crosby was a genius she waved goodbye gallantly and so long as he was watching she managed to smile.

Fondlest of all of Gypsy's memories was the evening before Crosby's departure. It was late August and because they wanted to be alone they had sought out the most crowded place they could find—a boat for Coney Island.

There had been moonlight; the wheezing, tinny tones of ferry boat music; and the cool, fresh night wind. They stood in shadow, leaning against the boat's rail, and Alan's arm was pressed about her close.

"Gypsy," he had whispered, "I don't want to leave you. Marry me tonight and let's forget about Paris!"

A hundred times Gypsy McBride had lived through the spell of that moment. Often she wondered how she had had the courage to answer: "But I can't, dear. You know I can't! A year and a half isn't so long. It's going to be wonderful for you, Alan. And for me, too, because you know I'll be waiting for you. You must write—write to me often, Alan."

HE didn't want to write. He didn't want to go away at all. Repeatedly he begged Gypsy to change her mind. As repeatedly she refused. It had been a delightful, fantastic boat ride. There had been kisses which each of them, happily deluded, thought to be unobserved. Yes, it was all sweet in retrospect. And after Alan had gone away there had been letters, just as he had promised. At first a constant stream of letters. Then one each week. Gradually the letters had come less frequently. But Gypsy could understand how that happened. She herself, tired after a long day in the office, often felt quotation in these states was 15 cents a gallon for the low test product.

The greatest price reduction in a field where no price war has been conducted in the past 12 months was in Indiana where the level dropped four cents to 16.3 cents a gallon. Oil company officials said the reduction was made "to meet economic conditions."

At other points it was said that

YOU WHO HAVE STOMACH ULCERS

Mr. Hurley writes: "I suffered with ulcers of the stomach for 9 years, spent over $1,000 with 17 various doctors. Finally a friend recommended ULCICUR. After taking only four doses I could sleep all night. I did not do it in 9 years! I took 7 bottles, eating all kinds of meat, have gained 34 pounds and am satisfied that I am fully cured."

(Signed) JOHN J. HURLEY, 578 So. Elizabeth St., Chicago, Ill. ULCICUR is recognized as the treatment most in demand for stomach ulcers, so nearly every drug store carries it in stock continually, making it easy for you to try a bottle. ENDS PILES QUICK

No Salves—No Cutting. Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood and restores the almost dead tissue. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that Rowland's Pharmacy says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back.—Adv.

Lee County Farm Bureau Affairs

Dr. D. E. Lindstrom, from the University of Illinois, held a meeting at the Farm Bureau office, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was on community club program, and most of such clubs in the county were represented. These club leaders received many new ideas for renewing interest in their local clubs.

C. E. Yale, Farm Adviser, conducted a poultry school Wednesday afternoon at the farm of L. E. Gonnig in Hamilton township, at which there were 20 interested poultry raisers present. He took up the subject of poultry management, feeding, housing and rearing baby chicks.

Mrs. Florence Syverud, Home Adviser, Misses Mary and Chelma Prytherch attended a Home Bureau party at the home of Mrs. O. M. Semler in Reynolds township Thursday evening.

A meeting of the Directors of the Lee County Service Company and their truck drivers was held at Amboy, Friday evening, Feb. 27. Supper was served by the Eastern Star ladies after which a school was held for the truck drivers under the leadership of Mr. M. Ward from the Chicago office of the Service Company.

The Lee County Home Bureau held an advisory council meeting at the Farm Bureau office, the afternoon of March 2, at which there were about 40 ladies present. The object of the meeting was to lay plans for the Home Bureau work for the coming six months' period.

Geo. Thier of Sublette township who has been away on account of illness for some time, is able to be at home, and called at the Farm Bureau office one day last week.

Ralph Bates of Steward reports having had an automobile accident. Mr. Bates has his car insured in the Farm Bureau Insurance Co.

Carl Sartorius and his committee on membership have a real job lined up for the next few weeks, when every Farm Bureau member will be expected to get behind the work of signing up new members in the Farm Bureau, and push it to the finish.

The Lee County Service Company has announced to the Farm Bureau members that they will pay a patronage refund of 6% besides paying the 7% on preferred stock. This company has not been backed by 100% of the Farm Bureau members, but after a successful 10 months' work every Farm Bureau member should get behind their company and boost.

BABY SHOULD SLEEP OUTDOORS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Almost all mothers now know that the baby ought to have fresh air, but few mothers have any definite idea of just what constitutes fresh air or exactly how much the baby ought to be in a fresh air atmosphere.

Actually a baby ought to be in

ABE MARTIN

Folks who go out between acts wouldn't be so bad if they stayed out. Th' many friends o' Wash Pusey 'll be glad t' learn that his wife has run off. Wash is an ole town boy, an' nothin's too good for him.

fresh air all the time, with the understanding that fresh air means air that is not stagnant, that is changed by proper ventilation, and of a temperature suitable to the condition of the baby's tissues. Outdoor air is fresher for these reasons than indoor air.

Dr. Frederick F. Tisdall suggests that the baby ought to be put outdoors to sleep as early as two weeks of age, if born in the summer months, if outside at six weeks of age. Since it is difficult under modern apartment conditions to put the baby outside, the best substitute is to put him, dressed up as if he were going outdoors, in his carriage in front of an open window and close the door of the room to prevent a direct breeze over the baby's head.

The mere fact that some babies have been placed outdoors in severe weather without harmful results does not indicate that this is the best procedure. It merely indicates that the babies were able to stand the rigors of climate to which other babies might easily succumb.

Dr. Tisdall makes the practical suggestion that cold cream be rubbed on the face of the baby before it is put outside in cold weather in order to prevent chapping. There is little to be gained if the baby is placed outdoors with its entire body swaddled in heavy clothing and its face covered with a veil. A covering over the face keeps out the beneficial light rays and it keeps the moisture in so that the child soon becomes damp and uncomfortable. The entire purpose of the outdoor air is thus destroyed.

BALANCED DIET REPLACES STARVATION FOR FIGURE

Iowa City, Ia.—(UP)—Not the martyrdom of starvation will maintain the slender feminine figure, but a comfortably balanced diet, coupled with vigorous physical activity, according to Elizabeth Halsey, head of the physical education department at the State University of Iowa. She thinks this business of reducing by starving to death is foolish and unnecessary. Long hikes, participation in season sport and an invigorating shower bath after recreation are Miss Halsey's prescriptions.
